

HOPE ISLAND RESORT

Early morning on the Links at the Hope Island Resort, offers the photographer some stunning shadows and light over the lake and the greens. To many this is their favourite tree in the Resort.

Some days we spot a rainbow on our walk around the Resort. On this particular day we found a double one hovering over us as we walked through Riverleigh.

Many homes within the resort are on the water with their own pontoons, as seen here at Gracemere. Boat owners can directly access the Broadwater and beyond. Some precincts within the Resort, such as The Palladian, have their own pontoon which serves as a set down and take off point for residents' boats.

PREVIEW

Around the Hope Island Resort there are a number of pools including The Palladian's which has a spa at one end and a children's shallow pool at the other. This is a very popular place during the summer months and bookings are essential for the barbecue areas. Many functions have been held around the pool over the years.

The buggy bays outside the eating precinct make it very easy for the shoppers to pop in for groceries at the supermarket, or a longer stay for a coffee, meal or simply a chat with one of the many friendly locals.

Hope Island Resort residents have direct buggy access to Hope Island Marina Shopping Centre and since 2019, the Sanctuary Cove shopping precinct. In addition to Coles Hope Island and IGA Sanctuary Cove, there are a variety of cafes, restaurants, wine bars, taverns and many other speciality retail shops.

Late afternoon at the Boardwalk Tavern is a perfect spot, especially on the timber deck overlooking the marina. Live entertainment is ongoing on certain nights of the week, as well as other fun activities. This image of mine has been a feature on the Boardwalk Tavern's web page for a number of years.

Jennifer Newby is a Gold Coast based A grade photographer and has been a member of the Gold Coast Photographic Society since 2015. She is also a member of the Australian Photographic Society.

Since 2011 Jenny and her husband Ian have been living in Hope Island Resort with their dog Evie. They moved to the Resort because of the security it offered while away and at home. They are also enjoying the community lifestyle and friends they have made. Jenny is currently on the Committee of the Body Corporate for the Palladian.

You can find more of Jenny's images and up-to-date news on the resort's activities on the Hope Island Resort webpage at www.hir.com.au. You can also keep up to date with her latest images on Instagram.
